Honey-Fried Walleye

Ingredients

- 1 egg
- 1 teaspoon honey
- 1 cup coarsely crushed Ritz (about 22 crackers)
- 1/3 cup all-purpose flour
- 1/4 teaspoon salt
- 1/4 teaspoon pepper
- 4 to 6 walleye fillets

Directions

1. In a shallow bowl, beat egg and honey. In another bowl, combine the cracker crumbs, flour, salt and pepper. Dip fillets into egg mixture, then coat with crumb mixture.
2. In a large skillet, heat 1/4 in. of oil; fry fish over medium-high heat for 3-4 minutes on each side or until fish flakes easily with a fork. Drizzle with honey. Yield: 4-6 servings.

Big hint for Mary and Scott as well as grandson Hunter who have been hauling in the walleye left and right.

Looks like that one fought back!

THE FRANK REPORT

1.20.2018

All the news I see fit to print.

Freedom of the press belongs to those who own one.

For those of you who think Hollyweird is giving you their "opinions"...you might want to recall the ads from the 1950's. Wonder who's paying for today's opinions? Tobacco is a plant you can smoke.

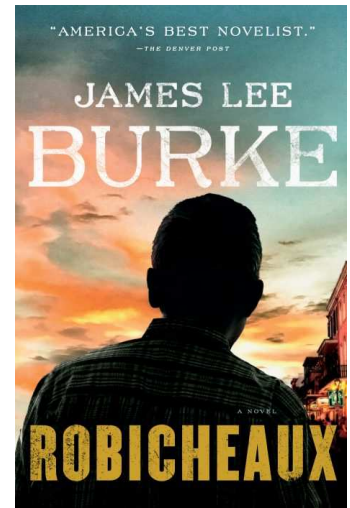

Marijuana is a plant you can smoke. Bill Clinton smoked cigars and used an intern as a humidor. JFK ordered several cases of Cuban cigars the week before his executive order banning them. Hard liquor was constitutionally banned and then constitutionally approved. The latest is a penny tax per ounce on soda because sugar is bad for you.

With Hollyweird, the issue is money. With our politicians, the issue is control. Both resulting from an ego that compensates them for the fact that they would not survive in a competitive society where they would have to prove their worth. The trend in both Hollyweird and politics is less nuance and more vicious attacks as people are starting to laugh at them...Saul Alinsky's tactic backfiring on his minions.

Bon Mots

The key to getting along with people is to either lower your expectations or learn to drink.

Book Report

New Orleans detective murder mystery wrapped in prose that would make Shakespeare very jealous...and James Lee Burke has been at it for fifty years.

BTW: got an email asking about the Jane Russel poster.

Try this:

Golden = money

Globes = breasts

I thought that pun was as obvious as Jane's.

I'm a real sweetheart...

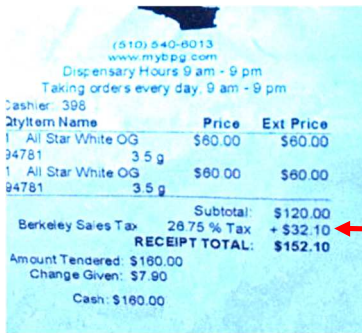

...and a real smart ass.

Package Deal.

For those who haven't let go yet...it's time people...shut it down.

-more-

In case you're wondering why politicians love sin taxes...this is Berkeley CA's first sale of "legal" weed.

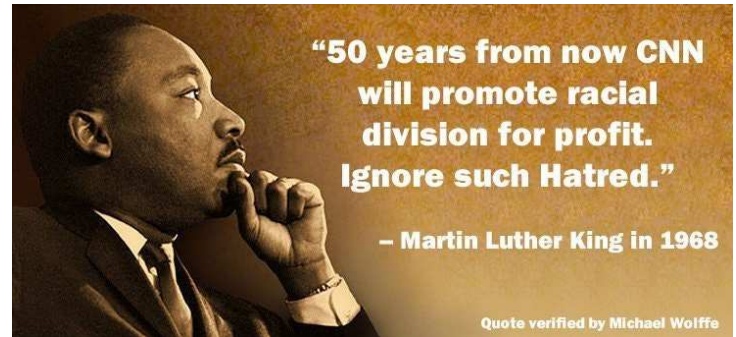

No...that's not my receipt.

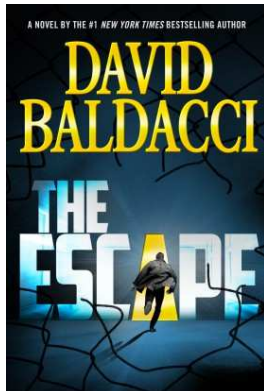

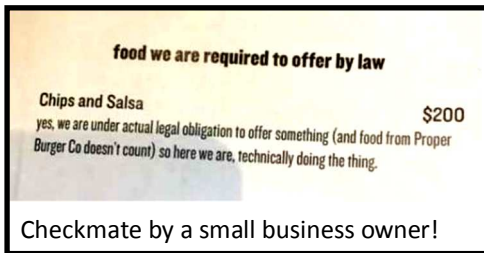

Meanwhile...on the left side of the aisle: I don't know which frightens them more...losing the House again or winning it with Nancy in charge.

Seattle's sugar tax at Costco noted at left. They should name the tax for the politician who authored the law.

Make sure you read the fine print on this one

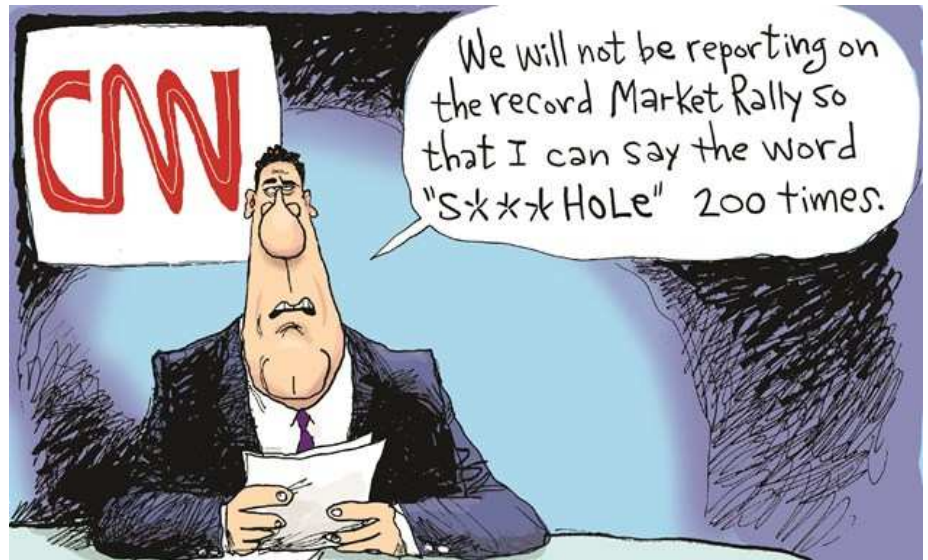

Book Report

Third in the John Puller Army detective series; think Jack Reacher with more brains than brawn. He doesn't get the girl at the end of the story but he gets shot at...a lot. It's well named as you escape to an enjoyable few hours.

Net Neutrality:

After you read the rant at the right, remember who is FOR net neutrality; the government and the cable companies. You can probably figure out why when eliminating net neutrality makes a rigged system harder to maintain.

NO net neutrality means competition for your money.

If you still have a cable or satellite TV subscription, you are paying these guys every month no matter if you watch or not. Politicians and the FCC allowed rigging of the system so CNN will get 50% of their revenue from YOU. Hollywood figured this out and have also tapped into the cable TV subscription money pot. The odd system works just like government...cable companies collect your subscription fee and then negotiate with content providers like CNN and Paramount with ratings no longer a major criteria of how much they will pay them. It gets even stranger when 40% of the public does not know that over-the-air FREE TV is still available. With a one time cost of $35, I get 14 channels including the major networks (that is not a typo). YouTube has figured out the rigged system and is now an app on ROKU...one of several devices with a one time cost. Other ROKU apps to look into: Netflix, HULU and Amazon. Suffice to say, you can save up to 90% of what you are now paying for a cable TV subscription...do not confuse that with your internet connection which is bundled with your TV subscription. Make the cable company negotiate with you to keep you as a customer by shopping for best internet...you only need 5mps to cut the cord (look that term up for more help to git 'er done).
