

Recipe Corner

Breakfast Baked Pancake

Bake the bacon for the rendered fat. Start with cold oven and turn the oven to 400 degrees (do NOT open oven) for about 20 minutes.

Remove bacon and aluminum sheet making sure some of the fat coats the still hot dish. Keep the dish hot and beat three eggs in a bowl until light. Add 1/2 cup flour, 1/2 cup milk, 1/4 tsp baking powder, 1/2 tsp salt. Pour into the hot dish and bake at 450 degrees for 15 minutes. Turn oven down to 350 degrees to finish until pancake is set. Finish the baked bacon in microwave to desired crispness. Add fresh blueberries, maple syrup or any fruit preserve to pancake. Be very careful and pay attention so you don't grab something that's going to remove your fingerprints.

That's the basic recipe. You can experiment from there. It's also freezer friendly.

If you save the rendered bacon fat, it goes great in the traditional white bread recipe to replace the lard. That's three of the recent recipes all wrapped into one.

THE FRANK REPORT

1.25.2020 #210

All the news I see fit to print.

Freedom of the press belongs to those who own one.

If I read this correctly, a 35 year old guy moved out of his grandmother's house and gave up his allowance. That about it?

In other news:

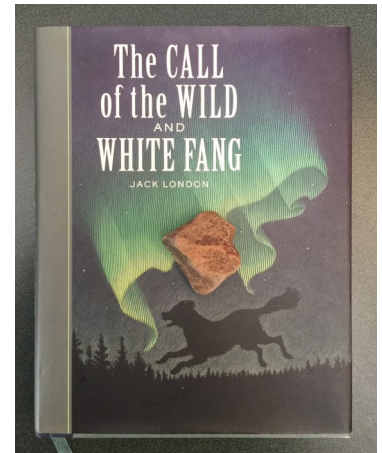

New York Times endorsed BOTH Warren and Klobuchar...because it would take two women to do the job one man could?

-
-
-

Bon Mots

The hard part about being a bartender is figuring out who is drunk and who is just stupid.

Book Report

The two books I found in eighth grade that got me hooked on reading. Harrison Ford has yet another movie next month based on Call of the Wild joining many other stars like Clark Gable, Charleston Heston...not bad for a book written in 1903. London's most famous story is To Build A Fire: here's a link you can type into your browser for a free copy to read (or listen to) :

<https://learningenglish.voanews.com/a/jack-london-to-build-a-fire/4190807.html>

London has been credited as the origin of the science fiction genre and was the first author to reach international fame and a huge income from his novels.

BTW: that rock in the photo above is from London's grave in Glen Ellen, CA.

-more-

Welcome to new subscribers and an explanation of my entertainment reviews. The Lame Stream Media presents this bug eyed pencil neck as the salvation of our political system. I use whatfinger.com for links to what's really going on. Most news organizations will speculate on whether it is raining. I tend to read the ones who stick their heads out the window and report facts. I also tend to search for television that is entertainment rather than ideology. Once in a while I find a gem:

I found this 20 year old sci-fi series on Amazon Prime and started watching Monday. I was into season 2 (of four) by Thursday. It's addictive and laugh out loud (scaring The Boys) fun. Created by Rockne S. O'Bannon, I was familiar with his work (including Alien Nation). Plot lines ricochet off the complex characters he created making me wonder the choice of drugs among the multiple writers.

I'm also binge reading all the John D. MacDonald 70+ novels thanks to a very inexpensive source: www.thriftbooks.com. They also offer dvd/BlueBay movies at bargain prices that includes free shipping. Also a source for the debut novels of my favorite authors...many I have found I have never read.

Faculty and staff at the University of Minnesota are gearing up to undergo pronoun training in order to make the campus a more welcoming environment for "transgender" and "non-binary" community members.

Facilitator Erin Keyes, who is also the assistant dean of students in the Law School, said in an email to the Minnesota Daily that a training session took place earlier for Law School employees.

"The Facilitator Training Program for Gender Equity Access allows the Law School to better recognize and honor gender diversity in our community, knowing that it is an essential piece of who we are," she said in the email.

"Failing to abide by this policy could result in discipline," according to the policy's FAQ page.

HOLD MY BEER!!!

Failure to abide by the simple explanation in this meme could result in hilarity and finger pointing.

Laws are so complex that there is a special breed of professionals to decipher them. They are called lawyers...and several derogatory names should this idiocy continue. I'm willing to drop my trousers to prove my pronoun. How about you Dean Keyes? It would be very interesting for you to prove "they".

These rare "non-binary" oddballs exist, so she assigns an imaginary gender to them so that they have a "sense of value and a sense of belonging".

Gender Equity Access...access to what? This is new age language invented by the victim-centric, identity politics-driven media because their ratings are tanking because the "news" must be driven by click bait to get eyeballs they can use to justify their advertising rate cards with no way to counter the various ad blocking apps sane people use.

GPA/DAD/UNCLE/ETC
fns@franksiegler.com
thefrankreport.net