

Recipe Corner

Grandson Hunter dropped off a trout for me. Ten minutes under the broiler...with a good Riesling. Had some leftover rice from the gang's order of Chinese food and mixed it with mild salsa resulting in instant misappropriation of both nations for Spanish rice.

With my gang here this past week, I may need some help getting the recycle bin to the curb. It's filled to the top with a weird assortment of adult beverage containers.

Granddaughter Gracie has requested queso...never made it before so we're searching for recipes...anybody?

Yes, I have enough corks to do this. Don't know why I started saving them but have a huge bin in the garage filled with them. Maybe I can donate them to a Girl Scout troop and claim the cost of the wine the corks came from? Latest tech in wine is that screw on cap...gotta be careful you don't cut your nose when you smell it. Check how old the trees have to be before they can harvest for corks: 80 years!

Coronavirus with Lyme disease?

This is a hyped, panic-filled version. It's exactly how the media deals with these things to create audience, readership, interest, clicks, what have you.

The survival rate of this is 98%! You have to read very deeply to find that number, that 2% of the people get the coronavirus die. That's less than the flu, folks. That is a far lower death statistic than any form of influenza, which is an annual thing that everybody gets shots for. There's nothing unusual about the coronavirus. In fact, coronavirus is not something new. There are all kinds of viruses that have that name. (Rush Limbaugh 2.24.2020)

In case you're wondering about those face masks. Made in China. So are most of the Rx drugs. HmMMMM?

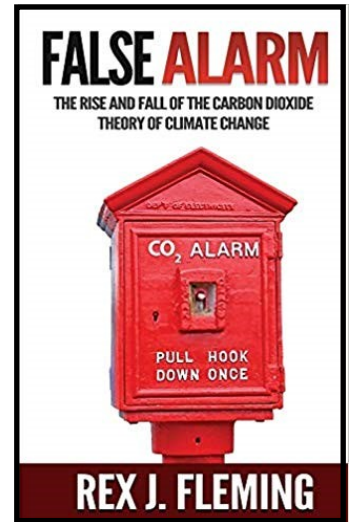

Isn't amazing how those Hong Kong protestors are no longer in the news? Or how about that climate change claim for Australian fires after 200 terrorists were arrested for starting those fires?

If you're wondering why the economy is doing so well and would like it to continue...

Al Gore and AOC ain't gonna like this one!

(But you will...trust me)

Amazon and Barnes&Noble have it; use Rex Fleming in search. Proceeds from the sale of his books are used by Rex for more research.

I'm on the last two of 21 Travis McGee books by John D. MacDonald. 50 others after those!

Caution: GOP MN caucus held 2.25...this is my precinct that is scheduled to have 15 delegates from those attending. A total of six people showed up. Apathy based on an overwhelming certitude that Trump will win is going to jeopardize the House and Senate seats. Last time I was at a caucus was in the 1960's and everything this time was identical. There seems to be "we've always done it this way" attitude that is inconsistent with what Trump's campaign demonstrated needed to win. Bet they are focused on a database of GOP voters and just keep preaching to the choir. They need to reach beyond that group just as Trump did and is doing for re-election.

I offered to help..."crickets".

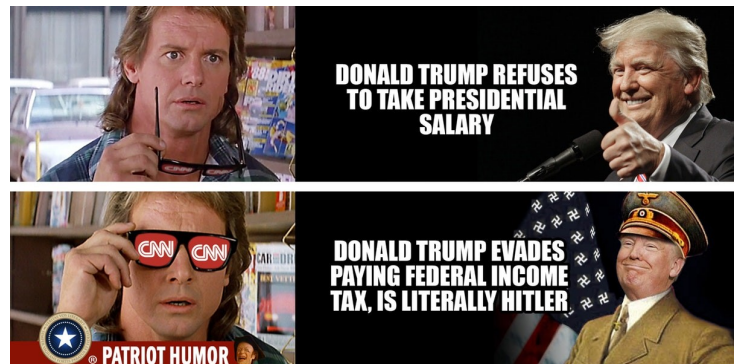

On Thursday, February 27th, the Minnesota House debated anti-gun bills carried over from the 2019 Legislative Session. Last year, anti-gun lawmakers attempted to roll these measures into an omnibus bill but failed to garner enough votes to do so.

House File 8, sponsored by Rep. Dave Pinto (DFL-64B), bans the sale or transfer of firearms between private individuals without first paying fees and obtaining government permission. Firearm sales between friends or neighbors would not be exempted.

House File 9, sponsored by Rep. Ruth Richardson (DFL-52B), allows for a chief law enforcement officer or designee for an ex parte order to remove an individual's Second Amendment rights without due process.

These two new laws would be in addition to the 17 already on the books. DFL controls the House. Lose the majority in MN Senate in November and expect even more of these useless laws to be enacted.

Lawyers and criminals are smiling?
