Peanut Butter Soup

Given the response from our veteran readers to last week's SOS recipe, here's additional insight into military dining:

When we couldn't stomach (sic) the SOS offering, there were several jars of peanut butter available. When the jars were almost empty, the cooks would gather them, rinse them out and then serve the result as soup. The bread for the peanut butter was baked on board ship. Rule was it had to sit for 24 hours before served. The flour frequently had weevils in it so the cooks would add sesame seeds to hide them concluding that the weevils were just added protein. The 24 hour wait period (maybe) to make sure none of the "sesame" seeds were moving?

True story...confirm with any vet. Maybe this is why veterans have enhanced immune systems?

Bon Appetite!

OK my vet brothers and sisters...send me your military cuisine stories/recipes.

All the news I see fit to print.

Freedom of the press belongs to those who own one.

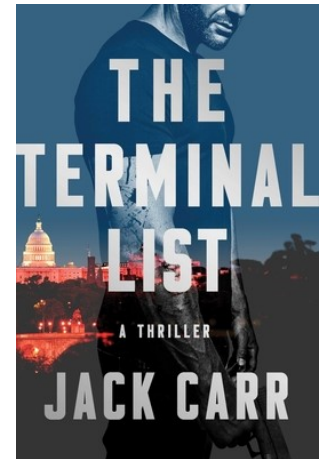

Only 23 Americans Test Positive for Flu Last Week Compared to 14,657 Cases Reported Same Week Last Year.

Are the double maskers going to start yelling at the single maskers? 🤔😂

Bon Mots

Some of the best moments in life are the ones you can't tell anyone about.

Book Report

H/T Larry Wingate for this one. Debut novel of a SEAL with mentoring by other thriller authors. It's sub-genre called revenge thriller and Carr does it over the top in this one. Ordered his second offering to see if he can stay the course. Hope so.

Getting addicted to Cussler. This one great geo-political story ranging from jungles to arctic. Unlike Patterson's co-authors, Cussler's touch very evident.

Burlington Northern Santa Fe Railroad (BNSF) owns all of the rail lines in the US that connect to western Canada, and they haul 80%+ of the crude from Canada to the Midwest and Texas or charge other Short Line railroads a fee to use their tracks. BNSF charges $30 per barrel to haul the oil while the Keystone Pipeline would cost $10 per barrel by the State Department's own estimates. BNSF is owned by Berkshire Hathaway whose chairman is Warren Buffet. In the last 2 election cycles, Buffet gave extensively to democrat causes and candidates. He also bundled and hosted numerous fund raisers for Obama. If anyone believes the Keystone Pipeline isn't being blocked by Obama on Buffet's behalf, I've got a bridge to sell you. Buffet could stand to lose $2 billion+ a year if the pipeline is constructed. He makes the same amount every year that the pipeline is delayed.

H/T to Ralph Schultz for this bit of history of why Obama killed the pipeline...President Trump started it again...and then Biden killed it again.

The Smartest People In The World have now taken control of Washington D.C. I'm laughing too hard to be too concerned. Some of them have to be embarrassed at the first two weeks of the Biden fiasco. The press "briefings" have become so bizarre I have pity rather than outrage for poor Jen Psaki. Even the Lame Stream Media has focused on vaccines and Covid to avoid reporting on what's happening. God help us. The politicians sure won't.
