

Recipe Corner

Shredded beef w/gravy

(experimenting again)

Crock pot: chopped onion, sweet peppers and garlic bits. Then round of eye beef slices marinated overnight in red wine and orange juice. Low setting for about five hours until you can easily tear the meat apart. Corn starch w/water. Cook about another hour then add cooked mushrooms. Serve over or alongside mashed potatoes. I use butter, sour cream and 1/2 n 1/2 for potatoes.

Election fraud results from AZ will be published by the time you receive this. The AZ Senate is expected to act on the results and may be the tsunami that shines a bright light on the entire election. Slow Joe supposedly won. Ironic design of that flag with rays of light. Let's hope it's the beginning of the end of the disastrous eight months we have endured. One down and only two more to go to prove who actually won.

Taliban Leader Zabihullah Majahid Enters Presidential Palace.

Joe Biden couldn't be reached for comment as he was still on vacation. Jen Psaki was also on vacation. President Trump could not comment since he was banned from Twitter and Instagram as well as Google. However, The Taliban's Mjahid has accounts on Twitter, Instagram and Google and assured everyone that they have come to establish peace and tranquility to the now named emirate Afghanistan. Meanwhile, JCS General Milley was issuing orders to protect the LGBT flag the Biden administration had raised over the US Embassy. CNN's reports included the observation that the Taliban troops were following the Biden's mandate for face coverings. CNN's Clarissa Ward reporting from the streets of Kabul, looked great in her hijab and said "They're chanting, 'Death to America,' but they seem friendly at the same time".

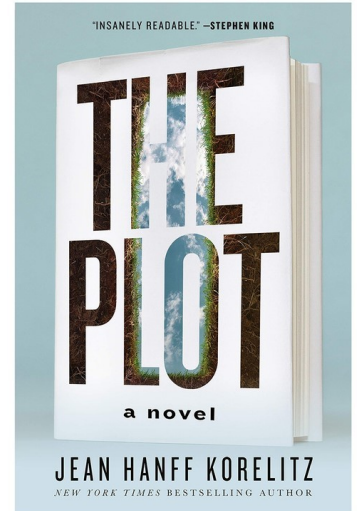

(NOTE: this is NOT my usual sarcasm...these are actual facts.)

BTW: Joe Biden was a Senator during Saigon, Vice President during Bengehazi, and *President during Kabul. Anybody see a pattern? Of course, the election fraud audit reports will be relegated to back pages if even reported.

Book Report

Jean is a writer writing about a writer who is writing about other writers. Subtle hint in narrative not so subtle as I figured out the twist at the end half way through. Good read; recommend.

Timely: about civil war and breakup of US NOW. Lots of action and biting satire. Start with this one and read the series. Bio of author Schlichter very interesting.

LAW: the system of rules which a particular country or community adopts to control the actions of its members and which it enforces by the imposition of penalties.

Fast forward to 2021 and we have 535 congress critters at the national level creating laws; some diametrically opposed to the Constitution. The purpose of their new laws is to enrich themselves and/or to give tax money to their constituents so they can gain their votes and remain in office to make even more money.

The congress critters have not been idle in maintaining the power of the law making process. They have worked with the executive branch to create a series of bureaus and then extended the law making powers to the bureaucrats as they fill the ranks of these bureaus with congress critters who have not been successful in getting re-elected. The bureau concept was so successful in retaining and then expanding their power, they created (so far) 15 cabinet departments, each having sub-bureaus numbering in the dozens. Not content with the 15 cabinet departments, the process further metastasized into independent executive agencies and regulatory agencies.

But, wait...there's more!

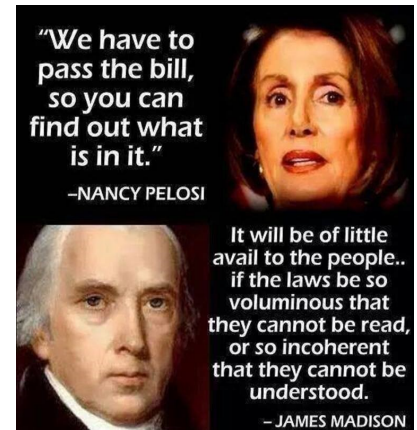

Further bastardization of the legislative process created government corporations like the Postal Service and National Railroad Passenger Corporation. (think Amtrak). They have even cross-pollinated some of the bureaus like the ICC (Interstate Commerce Commission) that "regulates" the railroads. Addicted to power like a crack addict, these bureaus push for larger budgets and hire friends and relatives so more personnel can justify those ever growing budgets. Let's recap: The legislative branch creates our laws and the executive branch implements them. The judicial branch is supposed to pass judgement on these laws based on our Constitution. Unfortunately, the judicial branch has imploded into an argument centered on the original Constitution versus the "living document" interpretation of the Constitution. Instead of laws that must adhere to our Constitution, we now have laws "we must pass to find out what's in them"...not to mention the power of the executive's pen and phone. Obfuscation has been the main weapon these political critters...at both federal and state levels...have used to pass (and I quote): executive orders, decrees, regulations. ordinances...and the idiocy du jour: mandates.

The First amendment is the only "law" we need right now to start shining a bright light on the congress critters, the myriad denizens of the executive branch and the (literally) thousands of lawyers in the judicial branch. This newsletter is just one of my outlets...I'm encouraging others to do likewise. Social media bans me but the Second Amendment protects my newsletter.

Head Scratchers

Taliban Terrorist Leader Zabihullah Majahid Is on Twitter while President Trump Is banned. Afghanis face 14-step U.S. visa process while illegals at the border walk right in. Some of the Marines being dropped into Kabul face court-martial for refusing the job. Obama gave $5 billion and the 'Taliban 5' for deserter Bowe Bergdahl. These terrorists helped the overthrow of Afghanistan. Biden withdrew our troops then gave Taliban all our weapons and is now sending our troops back. Team Kamala is shopping the cabinet for 25th amendment removal of Biden.

Until next week...
