

The Sunshine Protection Act (H.R. 139), which would make DST permanent year-round, was passed by the House of Representatives in July 2026 by a 308-117 vote.

The bill is currently in the Senate and has not yet become law, so the standard twice-yearly clock changes remain in effect for now.

Ironically, those solar panels and windmills are built by China while they are using the internet to discourage our use of data centers. Makes you think? I hope!

Another Trump name change verified by a chart from 1883 showing New Mexico WAS actually originally named New America.

This is driving the Lame Stream Media nuts.

More please.

The Frank Report

25 years after 9/11, NYC has a Muslim mayor and the governor of New York is wearing a hijab.

9.12.2026 #558

All the news I see fit to print.

Freedom of the press belongs to those who own one.

While you shake your head at that news, you might find it interesting that Hunter Biden is considering running for President. Remember what his dad did? 25 years after the Sept. 11 attacks, Taliban rules Afghanistan again, but now with $7 billion in U.S. firepower as Biden allowed the U.S. military to abandon billions of dollars in military hardware.

43% of all food stamps are free for illegals raising the price of food since we pay more for food including our tax dollars. The illegals the Democrats claim are here to pick our food comprise only 2% while 41% are on welfare.

The companies using illegal employment claim they need low cost labor yet reported $2.36 trillion. That means less jobs for Americans.

HUD housing for illegals amount to 60% which means Americans needing it are still waiting in line.

California has the lowest ratings for students 1-12 while 39% of those students are illegals. That means they teach to the lowest rather than encouraging the brightest.

More than half the gang members are illegals.

Indian tech workers once turbocharged home prices north of Dallas. Now they're gone — and a housing correction is already underway. For years, the suburbs north of Dallas were ground zero for one of the most extraordinary housing booms in America. Subdivisions multiplied. Prices soared. Builders couldn't put up homes fast enough. The engine behind it all was a wave of Indian-born H-1B visa workers flooding into high-tech jobs along a corporate corridor that attracted more company headquarters relocations than anywhere else in the country between 2018 and today.

These examples are just the tip of the dangerous iceberg.

China is running a massive influence operation in the United States, to support anti-data center protests and activists. As Newt Gingrich notes, "The anti-data center movement is a gift to Beijing", adding that if successful, "it will virtually guarantee that the Chinese Communists will dominate the development of artificial intelligence." CCP bot farm was uncovered, with 200 accounts pumping out anti-data center propaganda on X. This is the origin of bad information used by anti-data center activists, who make faulty claims in public meetings and repeat bad statistics in their social media postings. Meanwhile, the House and Senate are debating what time it is.

In China, you can buy a robot that can talk to you, and its appearance is customizable via 3D printing and modular head replacements... for around $8,000.

You can't trade in your kid.

Meanwhile, Elon Musk did that with a car that will take you anywhere you tell it to and even to a hospital if it thinks you're sick.

Birth tourism, a practice where foreign nationals travel to the United States specifically to give birth so their children automatically gain American citizenship, has resulted in as many as 300,000 babies born on American soil to visiting foreigners over the past 10 years. Those children face none of the usual entry barriers once they reach adulthood. As American citizens, they are able to enter the U.S. with no prior screening, attend college and receive financial aid, work at almost any job they choose, even with the federal government, and access all public benefits immediately upon arrival. The majority of the world's countries, particularly in Europe, Asia, and Africa, determine citizenship by descent rather than place.
